From the Airport by Taxi

- It is 15 km (10 miles) from Sydney International Airport to the UTS precinct
- A journey by car/taxi from the airport to the UTS precinct will:
 - Take 23 minutes according to Google Maps.
 - The taxi will cost $A20, according to the UTS web site.
 - ... but Google Maps and the UTS web site must be basing their estimates on a trip at about 3am.
- Sydney peak “hour” is long and the traffic is diabolical. At peak hour, double those estimates.

From the Airport by Train / Walking

- A train ticket from Sydney International Airport to Central Station (i.e. the UTS precinct) is $A14.40.
 - If there are two of you travelling together, the small difference between the train fare and a taxi may be worth the convenience of being delivered to your hotel door.
- The train journey will take about 12-15 minutes
- Central is usually the 4th stop:
 - International Airport → Domestic Airport → Mascot → Green Square → Central.
- The “airport” train is part of the normal suburban network, and at peak it is crowded – probably standing room only.

Walking From Central Station to Hotels/Venue (via the Devonshire Street Tunnel)

- Probably the easiest way to get from central station to any of the hotels marked on Map 1 is to walk back along the train platform IN THE DIRECTION FROM WHICH THE TRAIN CAME, go down the stairs, and follow the “exit” signs to the ticket turnstiles.
- After the turnstiles, follow the crowd toward the right.
- You will enter the very long Devonshire Street pedestrian tunnel. This tunnel is heavily used and is not considered dangerous.

When you emerge from the tunnel, you will see this scene (but perhaps brighter and less blurry, depending on your degree of jet lag.)

Continue walking down the incline and into the next tunnel.

If you are going to either the conference venue or the Mercure hotel, go up the first incline on your left. At the top of the incline, the Mercure will be right in front of you.

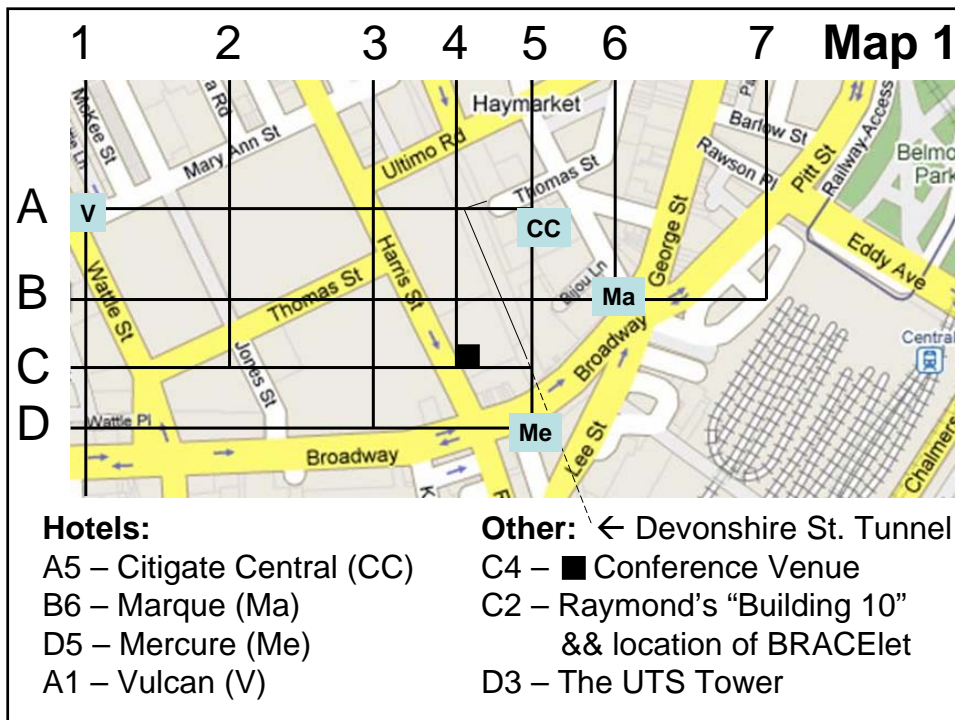

If you are going to the conference venue, consult part 3.

Marque

- If you are going to the Marque, continue down the tunnel until you see a set of stairs (not escalators) on your left. Either go up these stairs or back track to the nearby escalator.
- At the top, you are on Broadway. Turn around and walk down to the corner with Quay Street.
- ... people staying at the Citigate or Vulcan continue down the tunnel, and should consult part 2 of these instructions.
